"You'll Never Graduate"

- The commands and promises of the Bible. Some people seem to think that, as they age, the Bible does not mean as much as it did as a child. (Just notice how many adults miss Bible classes!) However, as we grow older, we should be drawing ever closer to God. His commands are in place to protect us, not to harm us. His promises should make us want to follow Him even more faithfully. And remember, God never breaks a promise.
- Learning. Just because one walks across a stage does not mean he or she has learned it all. Yes, it is symbolic of this part of education's being complete, but there is so much more to learn. As we age, we become acutely aware that the more we learn, the more we don't know. Most importantly, we need to learn all we can about God and His Word. While even a child can understand the basics, everyone can learn more.

These are just four of the things from which we never graduate. If we will spend our lifetime growing in these four areas, we will be pleased with the life we have lived
